

Professor Dan Sarooshi

Professor Dan Sarooshi is an English Barrister who has been instructed by 11 governments (including the UK and USA), 15 international organizations, and a number of corporations in important cases before the UK Supreme Court (including for the Lead Claimant in the Brexit case); English Court of Appeal; English High Court; International Court of Justice; European Court of Human Rights; Hong Kong Court of Final Appeal; Supreme Court of the Bahamas; World Trade Organization; UN Special Tribunal for Lebanon; and in international arbitration proceedings conducted pursuant to ICSID (including by operation of the ECT), ICSID AF, ICC, UNCITRAL, IUSCT, and LCIA Rules.

He has been appointed as (i) a member of the UK Attorney General Public International Law “A Panel” of Counsel to represent the UK in “the most complex public international law cases in various courts”; and (ii) Professor of Public International Law in the University of Oxford (promoted to a full Professorship in 2006 at the age of 38).

His books have been awarded the 2001 American Society of International Law (“ASIL”) Certificate of Merit, the 2006 ASIL Certificate of Merit, the 2006 Myres McDougal Prize by the American Society for the Policy Sciences, and the 1999 Guggenheim Prize. He is co-editing with H.E. Judge Christopher Greenwood the new 10th edition of Oppenheim’s International Law; has co-authored with H.E. Judge Rosalyn Higgins a long article on international dispute resolution in National Security Law; and was elected in 2008 as a member of the Executive Council of ASIL. He co-established with Robert Volterra the legal Blog <http://foreignstatesinenglishcourts.com/about/>